THE SUNRISE MESSENGER

Volume 33 Issue #25 June 18 , 2023

Welcome to Our Worship
Sunday Morning Message: God the Father
Sunday Evening Message: Sin in the Camp

Here are twelve things we can learn from Jesus and His parents when our Lord was twelve.

1. His earthly parents were already in the habit of going to Jerusalem for the Passover. Worship habits are important.

2. Jesus went with his earthly parents for the Passover. This was something they did as a family. In all likelihood, it involved extended family as well. Worship habits are important for the whole family.

3. Twelve year old Jesus was not in a rush to leave the Passover feast. He lingered. He and his family had already been there a few days and yet he was not ready to leave when the time came. It's okay to linger after worship. That is the time you truly get to know your church family.

4. Mary and Joseph assumed Jesus was where he should have been; with the company traveling home. We can't always assume our assumptions are correct. They started looking for Jesus after a day's journey. He was nowhere to be found. When it comes to our children, we shouldn't assume anything very often. Our children, especially twelve year old children, need our guidance in life, both physically and spiritually.

5. When Jesus could not be found, his earthly parents turned around to go look for him. They did not give up on him. It's tough being twelve and it's tough parenting a twelve year old. Don't give up on each other or on God. Instead of throwing our hands up in disgust let's fold our hands in prayer.

6. Twelve year old Jesus was still listening and asking questions of the teachers three days after he was supposed to have gone home. It makes me think that he enjoyed his lingering so much so that he lost track of time. It's okay to lose track of time at the church building because often that is where we are busy building up our faith and encouraging others.

7. The teachers listened to twelve year old Jesus. Not only did they listen, they were astonished with his understanding and answers. Now we know Jesus is eternal and it's only his human body that's twelve, but did the teachers know that at this time? I'm not sure, but what we do know is that they sat across from a twelve year old looking boy and listened. Our children that attend worship need to feel comfortable enough to talk to us and we need to slow down enough and listen to them. I can only imagine now the conversations I would have had with the preacher's wife when I was a kid if I wasn't afraid of her.

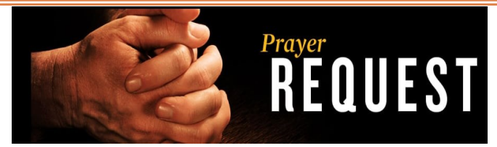

8. Mary questioned Jesus' behavior. She didn't just put off his behavior because "he's just being a twelve year old". She asked him why. Ask kids why. Ask them questions that get them to think about why they are doing what they are doing.

9. Twelve year old Jesus knew what was important and what was expected of him. His purpose on the earth was to seek and save the lost. With proper training and guidance, all kids can develop a heart to do our Father's business.

10. Mary and Joseph did not understand Jesus' answer. We can question our kids and they can give us a proper answer, but we can still not understand them. Understanding isn't quite the most important thing about listening to a child. Have you ever listened to a child talk about a video game? I don't get it, but what I do get is they enjoy being listened to and having something they can passionately talk about, so we listen.

11. Jesus went home with his earthly parents and were subject to them. As much as he was Lord of Lords and King of Kings, he still obeyed them. Humility, at any age, is a great trait to possess.

12. Jesus grew up. He got taller. He got wiser. He grew in favor with God and man. Twelve year olds do not stay twelve. No matter how hard we as parents try to keep our kids little, they grow up. Our job as parents is to raise our kids to love the Lord, to love going to worship, and to love God's people.
