Don't Let Your Zeal Outdo Your Knowledge!

A kindergarten teacher gave her class an assignment to draw a picture. As the children were working on their drawings, she walked around the room, checking their progress. One little girl seemed very intent on her drawing, so the teacher asked her what she was drawing. "I'm drawing God" said the little girl. "But sweetie, no one Knows what He actually looks like" said the teacher. "They will in a few minutes" replied the little girl.

The Bible clearly directs us to "be ready to give an answer" in 1st Peter 3:15, however it doesn't give us license to "fill in the blanks" however we imagine. The Bible clearly warns against adding to God's word, or taking away from it in Revelation 22:18. We should be careful not to let our desire to answer a question cause us to either add to or take away from the Bible. There is no shame in saying something to the effect of " Let me study a little more on that before I give you an answer". I once asked an instructor who teaches a doctorate coarse on scripture about a verse that I had received questions about while teaching adult Bible study, and his answer to me was "before I answer you I would need to spend time studying up on that particular passage".

There are many passages in scripture that are not easy to understand and some that are only understood by study of the laws and culture at the time it was written. After all, "about a days travel" doesn't mean the same distance today as it did 2000 years ago. The Roman court system didn't promise a fair and speedy trial by a jury of ones peers as our courts do. We are so blessed with all the resources we have at our disposal today and we shouldn't let these blessings go to waste.

We need to study the scripture in it's entirety and understand that when believe we see a contradiction in scripture, we may well have misunderstood a passage. God is infallible, Numbers 23:19, he has provided us with scripture for our benefit, 2nd Timothy 3:16-17, and by studying the complete word of God we will be prepared to answer whatever question we faced with.

The Bible may not tell us why flamingos have knees that are backward, or why God decided to cause some animals to go extinct, but it is our guide to eternal life in heaven. Knowing the word to the best of our ability can never be a bad thing.
